[67] [68] In addition to the Cambridgeshire County Fleet, it tested and bought a "guided" truck specially adapted for Use during cold weather, which would spray salty water instead of salt -rock. [69] [70] [71] [72] [73] [74] [75] In November 2011, this was increased with a custom "Multihog"/snowplough of Ireland, designed to clean the maintenance track And the maintenance cycle it accompanies. [74] [75] [76] [77] [78] The multihog is fed by the power of 90 horsepower, allowing it to travel at 40 km/h (40 km/h) and has a brine tank, instead of a hard courage. [76] [79] [80] In August 2008, approximately 10 kilometers from the ã´nibus road had been built, between Longstanton and Milton Road (Science Park). [Necessary quotes] on November 30, 2009, Training plates directing the TRANDEGO OF THE A14 towards the future ã´nibus park and tour sites began to be installed. [81] Another related significance It required subsequent adjustments of height, [82] and spelling corrections. [83] [84] [85] [86] The rivers were also blown, blocking the Route of the ã´nibus near Swaveveey. [87] The twelve crosses on the route route With the signs of trial priority of ã´nibus were tested on December 16, 2010 and functioned as expected.
