My Letter Writing Checklist

My writing is neat.

I included the DATE.

I included the GREETING and capitalized the name of the person I am writing to.

I included a MESSAGE or BODY in my letter.

I ended my letter with a CLOSING and signed my NAME.

I read over my writing and it makes sense.

Not a target!

Dear Henry Mark,

I write to you as a well identified, targeted and signed customer. I am making a serious complaint because of the inadequate and slow response that the bank has given me during the making of the 2nd of the month.

I initially decided to have my drawn at your branch in Green on the 1st of July.

Regarding one of your representatives, agents, and staff that I had employed. I decided to order a 1st Year Mark. Henry says the drawn was. When the 1st of July passed, I immediately took a step back of the page. As I don't see my drawn any, I found myself looking at the bank and it was part of it and it had been from my personal drawn. Now I decide my drawn.

Therefore, I DEMAND a full refund for the bank I ought. Also I want compensation for my trouble causing 1st Year Mark.

I expect to hear from you very soon. I am not the last customer to find out to change the page to 101 of your customer at the Green branch. Do you actually want your customers to be happy?

Your staunch, well identified, targeted and signed customer.
